A New Friend For Reagan

Reagan's parents had finally given her permission to get a kitten. Reagan was so excited about it that he could hardly wait to bring his kitten home. The family had decided to adopt a shelter puppy, so one Sunday, Reagan and his family visited the shelter their daughter had volunteered for together. When they arrived, Reagan told the shelter manager why they were there. "This is awesome!" said the manager. "We have two litters of kittens that are waiting for good homes. One is a litter of "Scottish Fold", and the other is a litter of "British Shorthair". Reagan and his parents looked at one another for a moment. Then, Reagan said, "I'm pretty sure we don't have enough room in our home for a "Scottish Fold".

Could we look at the "British Shorthair" kittens?" "That sounds sensible," Mom said. "I like "British Shorthair", and I've heard that they're good family pets." The manager escorted Reagan and her parents to the room where the kittens lived. Within a moment, Reagan had found the "British Shorthair" kitten she wanted. "Look," she pointed. "That's the one I want!" Everyone looked at the kitten Reagan had found. She was the smallest of the litter, but he looked healthy and friendly. The manager let Reagan and his family cuddle the kitten and play with him for a few minutes.

Then Reagan said, "I'm absolutely sure about him, Mom and Dad." Mom and Dad met eye to eye and they agreed it was a good choice. Mom asked, "What's her name going to be? "How about Sweet? She looks like a sweet, doesn't she?" Reagan asked. "Sweet it is," said the manager as she printed out the adoption papers. Mom and Dad signed the papers, and then the manager handed Reagan and his parents a leash, a bag of food, and four cat toys. "Here are some important things you will need," she said, handing Reagan a list.

Reagan took a glance at the list. They would need a cat kennel, food and water dishes, and a lot more. "We'll have to go to the pet-supply store next," she told his parents. There are a lot of items we need to buy to raise our kitten healthy. I can't wait to show my friends the new member of our household. I'm sure they'll love our kitten too. On the way home after all this joy, the only question in my mind is what will be our first game with our kitten?
